The College of Arts and Sciences at North Carolina A&T State University seeks an imaginative and inspiring chair, who possesses a distinguished record of scholarly and/or professional accomplishments and has significant administrative experience appropriate for the appointment of Chair of the Department of Journalism and Mass Communication.

Candidates are expected to exhibit a strong commitment to scholarship and excellence in the field of journalism and mass communication and to exhibit an open and collegial style of communication. Experience in fundraising and familiarity with the accreditation standards and reaccreditation procedures of the Accrediting Council on Education in Journalism and Mass Communication are also desired. Among the responsibilities of the chair are the administration of instructional programs, budgetary management, administrative interfacing with a broad range of departmental assessment and accreditation functions as well as interfacing with a broad range of departmental and University activities including the university paper, The A&T Register; the radio station, WNAA-FM 90.1; the television station; the multimedia blog, the JOMC Journal; and the public relations firm, Aggie Media Group (AMG). The chair should endorse the department’s commitment to instruction using multimedia platforms. The normal teaching load for chairpersons is six credit hours per semester. As the academic leader and chief administrative officer of the Department of Journalism and Mass Communication, the chair reports directly to the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

The Department of Journalism and Mass Communication has an undergraduate enrollment of 454 students in fall 2012 and 13 full-time faculty members. The department offers three concentrations in the Bachelor of Journalism and Mass Communication, including Mass Media Production, Multimedia Journalism and Public Relations. The department’s Bachelor’s of Science in Journalism and Mass Communication programs are accredited by the Accrediting Council on Education in Journalism and Mass Communication (ACEJMC).

Successful candidates should have an earned Ph.D. in journalism or mass communication with an established record of research and publication in the discipline. Experience with the program’s accrediting body, Accrediting Council on Education in Journalism and Mass Communication (ACEJMC) is also preferred.

UNIVERSITY/PROGRAM OVERVIEW:
North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University, one of 16 constituent universities in the University of North Carolina System, invites nominations and applications for the position of Vice Chancellor for University Advancement. The University is a Land-Grant Doctoral Research institution fulfilling its fundamental purposes through exemplary undergraduate and graduate instruction, scholarly and creative research, and effective public service. The University offers degree programs at the baccalaureate, masters, and doctoral levels. The University has also established the Gateway University Research Park, a Research-Industrial Park, in collaboration with the University of North Carolina at Greensboro to foster technology transfer and promote economic development in the region. The University enrolls approximately 10,800 students and has approximately 1,800 faculty and staff.

North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University is moving toward preeminence as an interdisciplinary learner-centered university. The challenges of preparing our students to meet the complex needs of a diverse and changing society necessitate that their educational experiences are global in nature and broad in focus. Our commitment to excellence is fostered by our unique university legacy of leadership, engagement and overall student development.

Through the years, North Carolina A&T has adapted its curriculum to strengthen science, technology, engineering, and mathematics. Riding the crest of the technological revolution, the University has moved rapidly to blend its academic and research programs with the needs of society and industry. North Carolina A&T also has advanced to the forefront in research with its current ranking as a doctoral/research university by the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education, ranking third in the UNC system in sponsored research funding for nine consecutive years (2004-2013), and receiving a multimillion-dollar National Science Foundation Engineering Research Center grant and establishing the Joint School for Nanoscience and Nanoengineering in conjunction with UNC-Greensboro.

Through the University’s recently completed strategic plan, A&T Preeminence 2020*, the University has positioned itself to successfully compete in research and graduate education among its peers.
North Carolina A&T aspires to be recognized as a preeminent land-grant university and the institution of choice for high-achieving students who are inspired by outstanding teaching and learning, civic engagement, transformative research, and creative scholarship to solve societal challenges.

LOCATION:
Greensboro, with a population of about 220,000, is a thriving, civic-minded city with its own Symphony Orchestra, Community Theater, Opera Company, Civic Ballet, and many outstanding public and private recreation areas and facilities. Greensboro is situated in the Piedmont Triad, an area of great natural beauty, diverse industry, cultural arts, and mild temperatures. North Carolina’s mountain resorts are an easy two-hour drive from Greensboro and the beaches of North and South Carolina are three to four hours away. The Research Triangle is about an hour and a half away. More information is available at: http://www.piedmonttriaadnc.com/

Nominations and inquiries of interest may be sent in confidence to the University’s executive recruitment consultant:

Martin M. Baker, Senior Vice President
Baker and Associates LLC
4799 Olde Towne Parkway - Suite 202
Marietta, GA 30068
mbaker@baasearch.com

North Carolina A&T State University participates in E-Verify. Federal law requires all employers to verify the identity and employment eligibility of all persons hired to work in the United States.
North Carolina A&T State is an AA/EOE.